

Product Safety Recall

Location of the serial number on the back of the heater.

AHM Ltd. is undertaking a voluntary recall of Campmaster Butane Heater model CM1950S sold through Supercheap Auto retailers nationally. AGA Certification 7393. Heaters affected are marked with a serial number ranging from 15000001 to 15001300 only.

What are the defects?

If the product is not used in accordance with the operating instructions, elevated levels of carbon monoxide may be emitted when the knob is set at a specific position between ON and OFF.

What are the hazards?

If the heater is operated in a confined space there is risk of carbon monoxide poisoning to the user.

What should consumers do?

Consumers should look at the back of the heater to check the serial number. If the heater is in the affected serial number range, consumers should stop using the product immediately and return it to Supercheap Auto for a full refund. Consumers will need to demonstrate to the service desk that their heater includes the serial number between 15000001 to 15001300 in order to receive the refund. For further information consumers can contact AHM by emailing enquiries@ahm.co.nz or calling 07 3208 1233.

See www.recalls.gov.au for Australian product recall information