

Product Safety Recall

Jaha Holdings Pty Ltd Apache RTC1 Model Year 2019

Sold between January 2019 and December 2019

Defect: Liquefied Petroleum Gas (LPG) is a colourless, highly flammable gas that may leak and build up inside the camper.

The gas appliances have not been installed in accordance with the gas safety standard for installation in caravans and boats for non-propulsive purposes:

1. There is no gas escape hole installed for the cooker and refrigerator in accordance with the manufacturer's installation instructions.
2. The ventilation system for the refrigerator has not been installed in accordance with the manufacturer's installation instructions.

Hazard. In the event of an LPG gas leak, unburnt gas could build up in the refrigerator rear cavity that could result in a fire, which could cause serious illness, injury or death.

What to do Consumers should stop using all gas appliances immediately and contact the manufacturer and arrange for inspection/rectification of the gas installation.

Contact details Consumers can contact the manufacturer Jaha Holdings Pty Ltd on 07 3888 0360 or email service@caravanrsc.com.au
